Day 2: Arrival in Barcelona

Included meals: welcome dinner

Welcome to Spain! Need a little pick-me-up when you arrive? Dive right into Spanish culture with shareable small plates—tapas to locals—like croquetas: crispy, deep-fried rolls with a crunchy exterior and a savory, gooey interior. Wash it all down with an orxata—a sweet, milky drink known as horchata to the broader world but made with tiger nuts in Spain.

Tonight, meet your Tour Director and fellow travelers at a welcome dinner, served with beer or wine.

Day 3: Sightseeing tour of Barcelona

Included meals: breakfast

You don't have to be an architecture fan to enjoy Barcelona, but you may just leave as one by the end of your trip. Roman ruins, Gothic drama, and soaring odes to modernism fill the city with unparalleled architectural landmarks, many of which are UNESCO World Heritage Sites.

- Immerse yourself in the awe-inspiring beauty of La Sagrada Família, a testament to Antoni Gaudí's genius. Inside, marvel at the intricate details and stained glass that bathe the space in confetti-like bursts of color.
- Drive along Passeig de Gràcia, where you'll encounter Gaudí's "House of Bones" (Casa Batlló) and the sculptural Casa Milà. Feel the pulse of the city as you traverse Barcelona and see how architectural modernism interacts with everyday life.
- Venture to Montjuïc, the hill overlooking Barcelona and site of the 1992 Olympic Games. At the Mirador de l'Alcalde, breathe in panoramic views of the city, the harbor, and beyond, perfumed by a Mediterranean breeze and surrounding gardens.

- Pass through the grandeur of the Plaça d'Espanya, a hub of Catalan culture. Look for the pair of towers, inspired by the campaniles of Venice, and a classically styled fountain at the center of it all.

If you'd like to deepen your newfound love for Antoni Gaudí, we recommend joining the excursion to Park Güell, where your eyes will joyfully bounce from colorful mosaics to the tops of whimsical residential rooftops. Savor every tiny detail in the stonework—you never know what surprises you'll uncover when you take your time.

If you choose to spend your free afternoon in Barcelona exploring on your own, you can explore the Gothic Quarter and walk its narrow medieval streets. You'll find charming squares like the Plaça del Rei and spot Barcelona Cathedral, a masterpiece of Catalan Gothic architecture built between the 13th and 15th centuries.

Day 4: Free day in Barcelona

Included meals: breakfast

On your free day in Barcelona, you can opt to forge your own perfect day or add one (or two!) curated excursions to your itinerary.

If it's cascading valleys and mountain views you're after, opt for the journey to Montserrat. You'll ride a high-flying cable car to the Santa Maria de Montserrat Abbey; on a clear day, you can peep the Pyrenees Mountains in the distance.

You can then choose to end your day with a romantic, passionate, and dramatic display of Andalusian culture at a flamenco dinner show. If you do spend your free day winding through Barcelona on your own, go for some rest and relaxation at Barceloneta Beach, where you can take a leisurely stroll on the boardwalk and—if it's warm—dip your toes in the Mediterranean. Or, pack a picnic and a bottle of cava (a Spanish sparkling wine) and head to Barcelona's central Parc de la Ciutadella. Walk its lush gardens or sit by the Cascada Monumental fountain for some prime people-watching.

Gaze at the Monaco Cathedral, an exquisite example of Romanesque-Byzantine architecture. The cathedral is renowned for its white stones, stunning facade, and being the final resting place of Prince Rainier III and Princess Grace.
- Pause outside the majestic Prince's Palace, first built as a fortress in the late 12th century. The royal residence showcases a blend of architectural styles and enjoys an unmatched view of Monaco and its crystalline coastline.

This evening, sit down for an included dinner with your group, served with beer or wine.

Day 9: Sightseeing tour of Cinque Terre

Included meals: breakfast

Occasionally, even the glossiest travel books and the most glowing reviews can't capture the overwhelming beauty of a place. Join your Tour Director today to discover Cinque Terre, Italy, an idyllic cluster of five villages set on seaside cliffs. Perched along a jagged six-mile strip of coastline, Cinque Terre's arresting natural beauty prompted Italy to designate the entire area a national park.

- Board a train to Monterosso and feel your smile widening as you come across the pebble beach, punctuated with orange and blue umbrellas, that defines this village. Known for its cultivation of lemons, Monterosso celebrates the tart fruit with a festival each May.
- Traverse the sparkling Ligurian Sea by boat to Vernazza, a village adorned with a tapestry of pastel-colored waterfront houses. Let yourself fall under the trance of fishing boats gently bobbing up and down in its harbor.
- Continue your nautical journey to Riomaggiore, known for its rugged coastal scenery. Colorful buildings cascade down the cliffside and appear to spill into the small marina—a valley between two steep hills.
- Learn about the Via dell'Amore, a famous hiking path that connects two of the five villages. Along the Way of Love, visitors find the path strewn with nets suspended from the rocks—waiting for lovers to write their name on a padlock, attach it to the net, and throw the keys into the sea so they're bound forever to one another.
- Enjoy short walks through Cinque Terre's villages, savoring the unique atmosphere, traditions, and cuisine of each.
- Transfer back to your hotel by train and take in the changing landscapes of Liguria's dramatic coastline and vineyard-covered slopes. Bookmark them in your heart to come back to again and again.

Please note: The boat ride is weather-dependent. In the event of inclement weather, you'll visit the villages by train. In addition, the specific villages you visit may vary.
